FINE TENNIS AT THE PIER.

CHACE DEFEATS LARNED AFTER AN EXCITING CONTEST-HOBART AND WRENN VAN-QUISHED BY HOVEY AND CHACE.

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 18 (Special).-The grounds around the Casino courts were crowded this forming by followers of the ball and racket who gathered to witness the final round in the pier tennis tournament. Malcolm Chace, of Providence, and W. . Larned, of Cornell, were the attractions, and both did brilliant work, Chace getting the best of it by three sets to two. Before the two cracks had made a dozen strokes it was clear that good tennis was the rder of the day. The first set went to Chace, 6-4. In points Larned had the better of his opponent, with to 27 for Chace. The closeness of the play left result in doubt, and Larned took the next set, 6-3, making the sets a tie. In points won Larned had 27 and Chace 20. The odd set was a tussle, fourteen games being required before Larned, by dever drives, ran it out with 50 points to 45 for Chace. At this point many left the grounds, think ing victory had gone to the Cornell man; but three out of five sets were necessary for the final round ting only one game and 29 points to 62 for Chace. It was a grand victory for the latter, who won the match on its merits.

One match was played in the doubles this after soon, Chace and Hovey winning from Hobart and when, Sace and Hovey winning from Hobart and tration idea, the winners will play the Hall brothers to morrow morning, Larned and Campbell having defaulted. If the Halls win they will be tied with Hobart and Wrenn and Chace and Hovey, making necessary two more matches in the afternoon. The summaries: Men's singles, final round-Malcolm Chace defeated W. A. Larned, 6-4, 3-6, 6-8, 6-1, 6-0. Men's doubles-F. H. Hovey and Malcolm Chace defeated Clarence Hotert and R. D. Wrenn, 6-3, 6-1.

SECOND DAY OF THE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

The warm and pleasant weather again brought crowds of people to the musical festival at Manhat tan Beach yesterday, and they were well entertained Sousa's Band and the assisting soloists. In the afternoon Fernando Michaelena sang a romanza from "Martha," and, with Conrad Behrens, the "The Pilgrims," from the same opera. norma Nice Moreska gave Arditi's "L'Estasi Valse," and the Madrigal Choir Boys sang "Auld Valse," and the Madrigal Choir Boys sang "Auld Lang Syne" and Crowe's "Fairy Voices." At the evening concert Mr. Behrens sang from "The Marriage of Figaro," Miss Jennie Dickerson was heard in the flower song from "Faust," the Madrigal Choir Boys gave "The Song of the Hop-Pickers," and the pregramme ended with the "Good Night" from "Martha," sung by Signorina Moreska, Miss Dickerson, Signor Michelena and Mr. Behrens. The band, of course, gave numerous selections at both concerts. The festival will be continued to-day and to-morrow. A fine exhibition of fireworks will be given to-night in connection with Pain's "Siege of Vicksburg."

THE REPEAL

THE FIGHT FOR REPEAL.

TRIFLING WITH THE COUNTRY. From The New-York Herald.

From The New-York Heraid.

Every day's delay increases the intensity of the strain on the people everywhere, but the Senate, instead of promptly adopting the simple measure which would restore confidence and check the panic, is pettifogging with personal and partisan tactics, and winking and blinking mysteriously about "compromises."

ONLY ONE THING WILL SATISFY. From The Boston Journal.

From The Boston Journal.

The rumors that Senator Gorman hopes to "harmonize" the Democrats in the Senate on the silver question are of sinister import. They cannot be harmonized on the basis of unconditional repeal, and nothing less than that will satisfy the country. RESPONSIBLE FOR THE DELAY.

The Democrats have full control of the House. The Republicans are clear of all responsibility for this waste of time. Surely the majority party ought to have wisdom enough to revise an agreement which is condemned on all sides, and is needlessly prolonging the distress of the business community.

A THOROUGHLY USELESS PERFORMANCE.

From The Providence Journal.

The empty benches to which the silver debaters in the House are talking are not a bit more empty than most of the talk which is there poured forth. THE REPUBLICAN TEAM PULLS STEADILY.

From The Chicago Inter Ocean.

The President doesn't have to crack any lash over Republican backs. They are in the team to pull the load, with every buckle fastened and every trace taut. It is Democracy that is made up of bucking broncos. Just wait and see them vote.

ABUSE NOT A GOOD WEAPON.

From The Baltimore American.

To secure the repeal of the silver-purchasing clauses of the act of 1800, it will be necessary to win over some Senators who now favor silver, and this cannot be accomplished by ribald abuse or misrepresentation of public sentiment.

PUTTING PARTY BEFORE COUNTRY. Prom The Philadelphia Record (Dem.).

In the manoeuvring and "steering" in the Senate of the United States there seems to be more anxiety for the harmony of the Democratic party than for the welfare of the country.

He won that title by hard fighting, and he ought to have the benefit of it in these days when persons of high-sounding nomenclature are attracting so much attention. He was Carl Peters, the noted He has subjugated savage tribes, set boundaries in the African jungles, established commerce, and won territory and subjects for his native country. He penetrated the wilderness of the dark continent to find Emin Pacha, and he led victorious armies through Eastern Africa.

"Yes," said Dr. Peters yesterday, "in Africa they call me the Wangonotakuta, which means, 'He who speaks with lead,' The savages also called me 'Kuhimerarissas,' which means, 'He who buys with bullets,' On account of the fact that I was often compelled to take villages, the savages came to know me as 'The stormer of strongholds!' Now, I don't take any great pleasure in these titles. I don't like to kill people. Mr. Stanley had the title in Africa of 'The man who breaks stone,' because he had so much stone broken to ballast a rail-road which he was building."

"The tribes of Eastern Africa know by this time what the presence of Europeans in their country means. They know foreigners go there to gain

Remington rifles from traders, and when they at tack an exploring party a sharp battle results. The Masai tribes are a powerful people. The men stand six or seven feet tall and they are courageous warriors. They looked down on us the first time we met them. Later, when they got better ac quainted with our repeating rifles, they were not so haughty. They are an intelligent race, and were it not for the fact that they affect to despise foreign customs, they would learn the ways of civilization randdly

"I went to East Africa originally as a private individual. That was in 1884, when I was interested in a trading company. Afterward the little company failed and I took charge of its affairs. I had explored considerable territory, which was afterward turned over to the German Government. I was employed to make explorations to determinthe boundary line between the German and the British possessions. In 1891 I was appointed an Imperial Commissioner for East Africa.

"In order to make our way through that part of Africa, hard fighting was necessary. I was in com-mand of about 1,700 men, most of whom were Soudanese. The only way to live there was by subjugating the natives. We did not want to be attacked; so we attacked the savages, no matter attacked; so we attacked the savages, no matter how many of them there were. I remember once is not a pleasant thing to fight, but we had to do it, or we should never have come away alive. Our mission was peaceful in itself, but we could not fill properly her sails, the incomparable Vigilant drew natives believe that. When all our suppiles for trading had run out we had to rule the savages by terror. We fired volleys whenever they time the wind was so light as scarcely approached us, charged upon them, burned their villages and drove their flocks before us. The and the Vigilant was almost abreast of the Colonia with only a few slight wounds. For two years rode comparatively unharmed through the wildest yet when I got to Cairo my leg was broken in five places while I was riding on the lic promenade. A young man on horseback approached to speak to me. The stallion which he was riding became unmanageable and the animal plunged over against my leg. I was in the hospital in Cairo for weeks." Speaking of Emin Pacha Dr. Peters said that he felt certain that Emin was still alive. He said that the man had such energy and perseverance that he thought it was impossible that the explorer could be lost.

"I well remember my meeting with Emin Pacha, said Dr. Peters. "We spent three days and three all the bottles which Emin's followers had brough from the coast. He was on his way to Lake Vic toria, and he was about twenty-seven days' march from the coast. It was a hearty greeting which he gave to me. We talked for three days, and made three nights of it besides. He was looking remarkably well. At that time he had not been heard of for five years, and I had been sent in charge of an Emin Pacha relief expedition to find him." "What do you think of Mr. Stanley?" asked the

The Doctor gravely turned a straw around in his lemonade glass, looked up at the dome of the cafe

"Well," he said, "Mr. Stanley is as much under "Well," he said, "Mr. Stanley is as much under-rated now as he was formerly overrated. I think that he will have a good place in history. He is a clever man. He knows how to get money. Some explorers travelled like tramps. Mr. Stanley travelled like a count. He had big tents, plenty to eat and drink, and he travelled slowly. Mr. Stanley was a journalist. He knew how to get himself into public notice. Other explorers before him had done as much, and more. They are scarcely known. Yet, I think that Mr. Stanley deserves a great deal of credit. He discovered the Congo, and his fame will rest upon that discovery."

Dr. Peters is an officer of the German Govern ment. He has a leave of absence, and he will devote several months to seeing this country. No sooner had he disembarked from the Fuerat Bismarck yesterday, at 8.29 a. m., than he had a carriage and began to explore Hoboken and New York. He stopped long enough to register at the Waldorf, then spent three hours in driving about the city.

Waldorf, then spent three hours in driving about the city.

"I like New-York," he said. "It is a much more attractive place than I had supposed. I am going to stay here for a week. I am comfortable here and I like these American hotels. I am surprised at the beauty of the buildings and the width and cleaniness of the principal streets." Dr. Peters will go to Chicago where he will speak before the Ethnological Congress. He will visit the Yellow stone Park, California and other places of interest.

SOCIAL SCIENCE ADDRESSES.

The Education Department of the American So is Science Association offers an unusually attractive programme for its day at Saratoga, September 5. Hamilton W. THE VIGILANT'S SURPRISING PERFORMANC UNDER EXTREMELY UNFAVORABLE CON-DITIONS-ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO BE

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Newport, R. L. Aug. 1s.-The attempt to sail the second of the series of the races for the Aster cups was frustrated to-day by the absence of winds mo of the time and the perversity of those which blew part of the day. There is a time limit of six hours on the races, and when it was evident that there was no possibility of the yachts making the cruis n the prescribed period steam took the place salis, and the yachts were towed home in the gatherig night. The attempted race was another opportunity, however, to show what a really wonderful boat the Vigilant is, and to prove that those who were enthusiastic about her last night had not been so without reason. From yesterday's contest and the attempted race to-day it does really seem as if either wind nor lack of wind nor wind in all its vagaries could prevent the Vigilant from winning a The race to-day was over a triangular course is the wind at the start was blowing from northeast one-half east, the course was laid out as follows First leg, ten miles south of east; second leg, northeast one-half east; third leg, west northwest. intended to make and, had the wind held steady, would have made, a reach for the first leg, a beat for the second leg, and a run for the third. was not to be, for, however skilfully regatta com-mittees may lay out courses, shifting winds may wander over the ocean and render their calculations vold and profitless. It was after 12 o'clock when the three cup defenders entered-the Vigilant, Jubilee and Coloniawere started in the race. The Vigilant was first over the line, followed by the Jubilee and the Colonia in the order named. All three were close together, here being the difference of only a few seconds in their crossing. The tide was about on the turn, and a northeast breeze was blowing. A heavy ground swell left from the storm which the day before had rushed along the New-England coast was rolling up from the southward and we-tward. The time of their crossing was as follows:

The yachts broke out their big jib topsails as they her rivals. The yachts had not got far from the starting line, however, when the wind died out almost entirely. There was scarvely a summer zephyr moving over the long, glassy swell that rocked the boats and shrank their windless sails. After a while wind was seen stealing up from the southwest. The yachts took in their balloon jil- tepsails and prepared for windward, setting forestaysails, jibs small jib topsails. The Vigilant and Jubilee set baby jib topsails, and the Colonia put out an inter mediate one. The wind freshened and away they went on the port tack, the Colonia leading. The shift of wind changed the Colonia from a leeward to a windward position and placed the Vigitant in a position far to the leeward. This sudden reversal of the previous order of things would have been fatal to ny boat that sails the water except the Vigilant The yacht best down to the first mark, ten mile away, with the Colonia far in advance. began to gain on the Jubilee from the first Tack. yachts had the same wind and tide, and were shill fully handled. Norwich, C. nn., Aug. 18 (Special). The copious showers of Thursday heightened the charm of clear and sunny skies when the croquet players assembled this morning. The game between Johnson and Germond, each with two games lost, drew almost the entire crowd to the grounds of the first division. Johnson failed to manipulate the

The game between Greenvilt and Knecht was to determine whether Germond had an undisputed first or whether he and Knecht were to be tied. Knecht finally won, to the great delight of the spectators, and the much anticipated play-off for first between Knecht and Germond legan. Finer playing could harlly be imaginet. Rochester, Aug. 18. Only one contest was finished the last day of the Grand Circuit meet here, the 2.1 class, trotting. The unfinished races are the 2.14 pacing and the 2.27 class. Only two heats were run in the lat and the 2-17 class. Only two mast were decided without a winner and the seventh heat was pertioned on account of darkness. The jockeying allowed in the 2-11 page was respon the for the unfinished contests. Hal Braden sold as a favorite before the race was started and continued a favorite at the end of the fourth heat, though he had a contest of the page. Then he went in and took the mark that ot got a place. Then he went in and took the next to heats too ca'dy. Great dissatisfaction was expressed with the way the thing was managed. MEETINGS. EMMA GOLDMAN DELIVERED ONE HARANGUE-A RIG GATHERING IN UNION

When a Tribune reporter walked along Orchardst. yesterday, and picked his steps carefully among beer barrels, garbage barrels and tiny children, who crowded the stoops and the sidewalks, the peaceful character of all the inhabitants was apparent. When he reached Walhalla Hall he stood on the opposite side of the street and began talking to a diceman, who was chewing either gum or to bacco, and resting leisurely against one of the newel posts in front of a big tenement-house "Is there much trouble in this neighborhood today?" said the reporter.

"You mean rioting and the like?" said he.

"Well," he answered, "everything has been very peaceful around here to-day, so far, but the con along came some unemployed persons, as told in The Tribune of yesterday, who, though refusing to answer to the name either of Anarchists or Socialists, yet took possession of the hall in spite of everybody, holding it for a long time against the chairs and gas jets and damaged a plane.

An able-bodied man met the reporter at the door. He looked pale. He said he had no work and wanted something to eat. Three policemen were inside in the barroom, two of them drinking at the bar and one of them playing cards with a group of citizens who sat around a table. They supposed to be guarding the place, having been detailed for that purpose by Captain Devery. The proprietor showed the reporter the damage

A man named Weinstein, who is the president, denounced Barondess as being at the bottom of the whole trouble on account of his "insatiable craving for notoriety."

M. Herman presided at a meeting at Golden Rule Hall, No. 125 Rivington-st., where Emma Goldman also spoke. He threatened the re-porters and warned those present to give no translation of what was said to "these enemies of labor lation of what was said to "these enemies of labor."
He went on: "What do the tobacco-chewing Yankees care for us? Nothing. Baron Hirsch gave

The document was devoted mainly to a defence of their conduct at Walhalla Hail, and threw the entire blame on the police. The curious theory was advanced that it was their anxiety to pay for the hail and the brutal interposition of the "capitalistic bloothounds" to prevent them that led to the riot. "We were so hungry and starving." It said, "we pushed in the door."

The International Labor Exchange, at No. 25; East Tenth-st., refused their hail to the mob, and so did the manager of Clarendon Hail.

When the fines were paid in the Essex Market Court, and four of the prisoners released, one of them. Meyer Lippe, of No. 14 Monroe-st., displayed 35 in bills. This greatly angered Barondess, who had collected the money and paid the fines. A mass-meeting of the unemployed people will be heid this evening in Union Square, and speeches will be made in several languages. Members of the Central Labor Federation, the Socialist Labor Party, and the United Hebrew Trades met at No. 61 East Fourth-st., last evening. It was decided to appeal to the Governor, the Mayor and Board of Aldermen to engage the unemployed men on public works.

TWO HELD FOR TRIAL, THE OTHERS FINED. MOST OF THE MEN ARRESTED IN THE DISTURB-ANCE ON THURSDAY RELEASED WITH LIGHT PENALTIES-NO DEMONSTRATION IN COURT.

The thirteen men arrested by the police of the Eldridge-st. station appeared before Justice Voorbis in the Essex Market Police Court yesterday The charge against them was disorderly conduct in connection with the riot on Thursday. Each prisoner said that he had been arrested by mistake. Joseph Barondess was in court and he had a worried look. He found it difficult to keep order among the thousand friends of the prisoners. who stood in front of the courthouse and clamored ex-citelly to know what would become of the offenders. Captain Devery, who was in court, was not at all vere against the prisoners.

The first man brought to the bar was Louis Korolsky. He said that he was employed by Finkel-tione, proprietor of Walballa Hall, to look after the gas fixtures which had been torn down. He sald that he was returning with caps when arrested. Policeman Beck said that he ordered Korolsky to move on, and he became insulting and abusive. He was fined $3. Meyer Lipstein was accused of urging the crowd to fight, and Abraham Tigar of trying to rescue him after he had been taken into custody. Lipstein was fined $5 and Tigar $10. Meyer Lippe, Harris Snyder, William P. Klein and David Belinsky were next arraigned. Policeman McGibney said that Lippe and Klein knocked him down and kicked him. The other two men attempted to rescue the prisoners. Lippe and Klein were fined $10 and the other two men were fined $5 each.

cus and Mark Levine were fined $3 each for blocking the street. Louis Rethfield was held for trial on a charge of malicious mischief. He was in the crowd and threw a stone at Policeman Hogan, of the Eldridge-st. station, which struck him on the head, causing a slight scalp wound.

Abraham Bloom, who tore down the gas fixtures in Walhalla Hall when the mob was leaving the place, was also held for trial.

Barondess collected $50 from the friends of the prisoners who were in the courtroom and in the street, with which he paid the fines. During the proceedings the courtroom was crowded with people, who acted in an orderly manner.

TRUE AND FALSE DIPHTHERIA.

INTERESTING FACTS ON THE PHASES OF THE DISEASE BROUGHT OUT BY DR. BIGGS'S BACTERIOLOGICAL EXAMINATION

President Wilson, of the Health Board, has received from Dr. H. M. Biggs, the chief of the Bureau of Bacteriology, a report which states that of 431 cultures in supposed cases of diphtheria 301 developed the bacteria of diphtheria, while the sence of the germs in 130 cultures indicated that the cases were not those of real diphtheria. The work of making the bacteriological examinations in supposed diphtheria cases was begun in May. Tubes containing Loeffer's blood serum have been dis-tributed at certain drugstores in the city, for the use of physicians who desired to have tests made. After the tubes were inoculated with matter from the throats of patients they were taken to the Health Department, in Bleeckerst., and placed in an incubator for a few hours. An examination with a microscope of the contents of a tube quickly shows if the bacteria of diphtheria have developed in the blood serum. Dr. Biggs says

These investigations have shown that a considera-ble proportion of the pseudo-membraneous and ex-udative inflammations of the throat and upper air passages, commonly considered as diphtheria, and having the anatomical appearances found in diph-theria, are not true diphtheria, but are of a far less serious nature. These latter cases may be called false diphtheria.

theria, are not true diphtheria, but are of a far less serious nature. These latter cases may be called false diphtheria.

In true diphtheria the mortality is very high, and the danger of transmission to others is great; in false diphtheria the mortality is very low, and the danger of infection slight.

The differentiation between true and false diphtheria, though often difficult or impossible without the aid of a bacteriological examination, can in this way be made within a few hours. Cases which prove to be false diphtheria will not receive further detailed attention from the Health Department, Cases, on the other hand, which prove to be true diphtheria will be subjected to the usual rules and regulations covering contagious diseases.

REPUBLICAN CHANCES IN IOWA.

MR. JACKSON, THE CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR. CONFIDENT OF VICTORY-THE TEM-PERANCE QUESTION.

Frank D. Jackson was in this city when he was nominated for Governor by the Iowa Republicans on Wednesday. He left this city yesterday for his own sinic with the intention of beginning a vigorous and victorious campaign. He was been for County in this State in 1854, but his parents moved villages and drove their flocks before us. The save and the Vigilant was almost abreast of the Colonia they fought desperately.

If was in twenty-three fights while in Africa, and I had some narrow escapes. I got through with only a few sight wounds. For two years 1.

Another at empt will be made to sail the race.

The proprietor showed the Profiter the James of the Colonia the profiter the James of the State and Which had been done, and whic been a member of the state senate and was twice elected Secretary of State. Before he left this city Mr. Jackson said: "I have not the least doubt that the Republicans will carry the State. The party was never in better condition there than now. Iowa has been comparatively little there than now. Iowa has been comparatively little affected by the present hard times. The corn, hay and other crops are excellent. The farmers will stand by the Republican party without fail.

"As to the liquor question, I believe that the sensible platform adopted by the Republican convention will meet with general approval and will bring back to the party thousands of voves. Prohibition is an established fact in sixty of the ninety-nine countles, in the others it is a complete failure. Local option will give all sections the right to choose and enforce for themselves."

"What are your views on the currency question?"

What are your views on the currency question?"

I believe in bimetallism. I am not in favor of the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law. I believe that a safe substitute can be found by which silver shall still be used as money. Of course I am an out and out Protectionist. The Republicans of Iowa want no free trade in theirs."

MISS FULLER WILL SEE IT THROUGH.

Miss Lole Fuller says that she will continue her engagement at the Garden Theatre to the end, in spite of anything that has happened or may happen It was said last night that the little play "A Visit, which had such bad luck on the opening night, would be put on the stage again on Monday, with would be put on the siage again on Monday, with Miss telea Brandon in the cast, and Robert Hillfard in the place of John Kellerd. This was denied, how-ever, and it was announced on better authority that "A Morning Call" would also be taken off and "The Doctor's Biander" substituted for it, and that a few new specialties yet to be decided upon would be added to the bill.

TWO FIGHTS AT THE CONEY ISLAND CLUB. The Cabill-Sullivan prize fight, at the Coney Island Athletic Club, last evening, resulted in a victory for Sullivan. Cahili n-ade a good fight, but Sullivan was too quick for him. After fight-ing for fifty-seven seconds in the third round, Cahill was "knocked out," Sullivan, by his victory, wins a purse of $1,000, but $20 of this amoun get bread after asking for it, they should go and goes to Cahill. The contest of the evening betake it. She then branched off into an excited extraction of Providence, and "Steve" goes to Cahill. The contest of the evening be-tween John Cattanach, of Providence, and "Steve" O'Donnell, of Australia, for a purse of $2,500, was won by O'Donnell, after four rounds. The fight was to have been twenty rounds or more, At the end of the contest Cattanach was found to be so severely hurt as to need the services of a

> The funeral of John Harris, the wealthy leather erchant, who died suddenly in the Revere House, Broadway and Houston-st., or Wednesday morning, was held at 8 o'clock last evening at his home, No. 75 Conselyea-st., Brooklyn. Long before the hour the house was packed with a curious crowd, while fully 200 people gathered on the sidewalk in front of the dwelling. The Rev. Dr. Srifflin, pastor of the Episcopal Church at Maspeth, conducted the services. At the close of the service De Witt Clinton Commandery, No. 27, K. T., and Hyatt Lodge, No. 265. F. and A. M., held services according to the ribes of the order. His wife and daughter did not at-tent the services, but remained in their apartments. INTEREST IN COLONEL O'FERRALL'S POSITION Washington, Aug. 18 (special),-It is understood that Representative O'Ferrall, who has just been nominated for Governor of Virginia, will not immediately resign his seat in Congress, and considerable curlosity. Is felt to know how he will vote on the proposition-now negation in the Heavy Colorad (Proposition-

gress, and an overwhelming majority of the Democratic party in Virginia is in favor of the same thing. The Democratic State convention yesterday, however, fought shy of the question and contented itself with reaffirming the financial declarations of the Chicago Convention which have received such contradictory and contrary interpretations from eminent Democrats during the pending debate in the House. The interpretation that Coloni O Ferrall may choose will be shown by his vote, which will be watched for with interest by the Democrats of Virginia, whose standard-bearer he is to be in the coming State campaign. Some men would be likely to "dodge" a vote under such circumstances, but Colonel O'Ferrall possesses too much courage, as well as candor, to do that. to do that.

The boxes are of a new design, and besides affording a good view of the stage, make the occupants so conspicuous as usual. metal work and draperies in the boxes will help to screen in the occupants, and add to the beauty the proscenium. All the ornamental work is of plaster of special designs in bold relief and the decorations are in ivory white, amber and gold. The foyers and lobbles have and all the newest effects in lighting can be produced.

A new heating and ventilating plant has also been put in. The heating will be done by indirect steam radiation, and the ventilation will be forced by electric blowers. The inlets of ale are so distributed that there will be no draught. The stage will be so heated that the cold draught which is usual in theatres when the curtoin rises will be avoided. The plumbing fixtures are of the latest patterns, and the entire work has been done in strict accordance with the best sanitary rules. The work has been designed by J. B. McEliatrick & Son.

The house will be opened on Monday right with "The Span of Life," which has been seen here several times already, and has established itself as a favorite with lovers of sensational melodrama.

Michael's, and the completion of their noble free-church edifice.

His sympathetic interest in all that concerned the welfare of his own people directed his attention to the manifold, yet unrecognized, needs of the community at large, and so he became a piencer in city mission work. His service as a philanthropist was the outgrowth of his labor as a narish priest. From small beginnings he developed various institutions, such as the Sheitering Arms, the Children's Fold, and the House of Rest for Consumptives, of the benefits of which the whole poblic alike partaine. His appointment as Archicecco of New-York was thus universally recognized as a fitting official recognition of his character and service.

Beloved of the Brethren, and henored of all men, by the sudden call of his Master, he now "rests from his laters and his works do follow him." "Riessed is that servant whom his Lord when he cometh shall find so Going," Signed in behalf of the Cheer present at the funeral.

In the death of the Rev. Thomas McClure Peters, D. D. his Biethren of the Clergy recognize the loss to the Church and community of a man genuine and devoted in character, whose intelligent prevision and comprehension of the scope of Christian work, combined with his cheerful and persistent activity, enabled him to achieve great and beneficent results.

For fifty years connected with the same parish, his labors were crosmed by spiritual and material success, as evidenced by the large and loving congregation of St. Michael's, and the completion of their noble free-church edifice.
